Terms of Service

AI4TEST — Downloaded on 2026/11/22

These terms govern your use of AI4TEST. By creating an account or signing in you agree to them.

1. The service

AI4TEST generates, runs and maintains automated tests for the repositories you connect to it. The service is provided as-is; we make no guarantee that generated tests are complete or correct, and you remain responsible for reviewing everything before it reaches production.

2. Your account

- You are responsible for everything that happens under your account.
- Keep your credentials and access tokens to yourself.
- Tell us straight away if you believe your account has been compromised.

3. Acceptable use

You may not use AI4TEST to break the law, to attack systems you are not authorised to test, or to work around the usage limits of your plan.

4. Your content

Your source code, test runs and results remain yours. You grant us only the licence we need to run the service for you: storing, processing and sending your content to the AI providers the service is built on.

5. Billing

Paid plans are billed in advance for the period you chose. Token usage beyond what your plan includes is billed against your balance. Fees already paid are not refundable unless the law says otherwise.

6. Termination

You can close your account at any time. We may suspend an account that breaches these terms, and will tell you why when we do.

7. Changes

We may update these terms. The version in force is the one shown when you sign in, and continuing to use the service after a change means you accept the new version.
